

ABSTRACT

A tray for holding surgical fasteners comprises at least one well holding one of the fasteners and a film over the well. Preferably the film is weakened, as by scoring, or 5 slit, over the well to more easily allow an instrument to penetrate the well to remove the fastener.